Teleology extends beyond just ethics, and refers to any aspect of existence with a definite end, whether in human behavior or in nature. For instance, a teleological view of animals proposes that current animals are, in some sense, an intended end of evolution or creation. Deontology, on the other hand, is solely concerned with ethical questions. What Is the Difference Between Teleological and Deontological? 1. Deontology is an approach to ethics which adheres to the theory that an end does not justify the means while teleology is an approach to ethics that adheres to the theory that the end always justifies the means. 2. Deontology is also known as duty-based ethics while teleology is also known as results-oriented ethics. Difference Between Deontology and Teleology Difference ... Teleological ethics, (teleological from Greek telos, "end"; logos, "science"), theory of morality that derives duty or moral obligation from what is good or desirable as an end to be achieved. Also known as consequentialist ethics, it is opposed to deontological ethics (from the Greek deon, "duty"), which holds that the basic standards for an action's being morally right are independent of the good or evil generated. Teleological ethics | philosophy | Britannica Kant defines deontological theory as a position based and predominately . Therefore, the whether an act is right or wrong is independent of the consequences that produces. Furthermore, deontological principle is concerned with our duties and what we ought to do, it is actual the chief rival of teleological theory (Pigliucci 2011).
